Public Reports

WGEA publishes the Public Report, except personal information in whole, or part on the Data Explorer and uses its contents in whole or part for other purposes in electronic or other formats.

Two documents make up your Public Report and can be generated and downloaded after preparing your submission for lodgement:

- Public Report – Questionnaire
- Public Report – Employee Data Tables

The Public Report must be:

- Given to your CEO or equivalent for review, approval and sign off before lodgement.
- Shared in accordance with the Notification and Access requirements under the Workplace Gender Equality Act 2012 (the Act).

Report contacts will be asked to declare in the Portal that all relevant CEO or equivalents have signed the public report.

Detailed information on the requirements to share the public report with your employees, members or shareholders can be found within the online Reporting Guide on Notification and Access requirements.

Gender Equality Standards

If there is a single entity employing 500 or more employees, they must have a policy or strategy in place against each of the six Gender Equality Indicators. More information can be found within the online reporting guide on Gender Equality Standards.

Workplace Overview

Policies & Strategies

Employer policies or strategies on workplace gender equality and the composition of the workforce can be powerful levers for making progress and change. Policies or strategies are most effective when backed up by evidence-informed action plans to address areas of imbalance and inequality. Similarly, targets are achievable, time-framed goals that create mechanisms for accountability and are effective when combined with dedicated actions to help achieve them.

1.1 Do you have formal policies and/or formal strategies in place that support gender equality in the workplace?

Yes

Strategy

1.1a Do the formal policies and/or formal strategies include any of the following?

Recruitment; Retention; Performance management processes; Promotions; Succession planning; Training and development; Talent identification/identification of high potentials; Key performance indicators for managers relating to gender equality

Gender identity; Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander background; Cultural and/or language background; Disability and/or accessibility

1.3 Does your organisation have any targets to address gender equality in your workplace?

Yes

Reduce the organisation-wide gender pay gap; Increase the number of women in management positions; Increase the number of men taking parental leave

1.4 If your organisation would like to provide additional information relating to your gender equality policies and strategies, please do so below.

Board and Executive are provided with visibility of Police & Nurses Limited's gender pay gaps by level and division annually, with other DEI data provided to these cohorts every 6 months.

Upon review of the gender pay gaps identified each year, the organisation endeavours to eliminate such gaps through our cyclical remuneration review and talent acquisition processes. Where recruitment for an Executive position is triggered, all executive shortlists and interview panels are to be gender diverse. We have also been focusing on implementing this for other positions within the organisation where a gender imbalance is present. To further assist with taking action on gender equity, the organisation has also implemented a Key Performance Indicator (KPI) relating to the gender pay gap and DEI within our Executive's performance plans, as well as launched our Gender Equity Strategy which includes four pillars of focus: Gender Pay Gap, Financial Equity, Employee Entitlements and Communication, Engagement & Advocacy.

Workplace Overview

Governing Bodies

Gender balance on governing bodies or Boards is good for business. It contributes to workplace gender equality outcomes and improved company performance more broadly. Measures to support gender balance in the governing body include analysing the gender representation of chairs and other members, considering gender in the selection of Board members, and taking action to drive change through term limits, gender equality targets and policies.

Action on Gender Equality

Gender Pay Gaps

The gender pay gap is the difference in average or median earnings between women and men. It is a measure of how we value the contribution of women and men in the workforce. The gender pay gap is not to be confused with women and men being paid the same for the same, or comparable, job – this is equal pay. Equal pay for equal work is a legal requirement in Australia. However, illegal instances of unequal pay can still be one of the many drivers of the gender pay gap. Closing the gender pay gap is important for Australia's economic future and reflects our aspiration to be an equal and fair society for all.

2.1 Do you have formal policies and/or formal strategies on equal remuneration (pay equity and the gender pay gap) between women and men?

Yes

Strategy

2.1a Do the formal policies and/or formal strategies include any of the following?

To achieve gender pay equity; To close the gender pay gap; To ensure no gender bias occurs at any point in the remuneration review process (for example at commencement, at annual salary reviews, out-of-cycle pay reviews, and performance reviews); To be transparent about pay scales and/or salary bands; To ensure managers are held accountable for pay equity outcomes; To implement and/or maintain a transparent and rigorous performance assessment process

2.2 Have you conducted analysis to determine if there are remuneration gaps between women and men?

Yes

2.2a What type of gender remuneration gap analysis has been undertaken?

Like-for-like pay gaps analysis which compares the same or similar roles of equal or comparable value to identify unequal pay; A by-level gap analysis which compares the difference between women's and men's average pay within the same employee category; Overall gender pay gap analysis to identify the difference between women's and men's average pay and gender composition across the whole organisation

2.2b When was the most recent gender remuneration gap analysis undertaken?

Within the last 12 months

2.2c Did you take any actions as a result of your gender remuneration gap analysis?

Yes

Created a pay equity strategy or gender equality action plan; Identified cause/s of the gaps; Reported results of pay gap analysis to the governing body; Reported results of pay gap analysis to the executive; Reported results of pay gap analysis to all employees; Reviewed talent acquisition processes; Reviewed and implemented performance evaluation processes to ensure no gender bias; Implemented other changes (provide details):

Provide details: Delivered a Gender Equity workshop to leaders addressing GPG, key drivers and practical strategies to address. Alongside this session, also provided a comprehensive guide to leaders outlining key GPG actions at each stage of employee lifecycle.

You may also provide more detail below on the gender remuneration gap analysis that was undertaken.

2.3 If your organisation would like to provide additional information relating to employer action on pay equity and/or gender remuneration gaps in your workplace, please do so below.

While the median and average gender pay gaps at Police & Nurses Limited are lower than the industry average, we acknowledge that there is still considerable work to be done to further close the gap. We recognise the complexity of factors contributing to gender pay gaps across our industry and more broadly across Australia. At Police & Nurses Limited, the gender pay gap has been influenced by factors including, a higher proportion of male employees in senior roles, women being more highly represented in lower-level positions, and the historical attraction of a greater number of male candidates to technical and specialist retail roles resulting in a smaller representation of women and higher remuneration averages in areas such as Information Technology and Business Banking. Through our Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) Strategy, we are making progress on removing barriers that prevent women from pursuing leadership roles and advancing their careers. Our strategy includes actions such as increasing flexibility, supporting career development and engaging men in gender equity initiatives. Police & Nurses Limited is also committed to ongoing year-on-year improvements, including the use of enhanced data analytics to better understand the drivers of our gender pay gap. Our Gender Equity Strategy has been launched and is now embedded as a key pillar of our DEI agenda, with actions underway across the employee lifecycle. Gender equity metrics have been incorporated into Executive Key Performance Indicators (KPIs), and our CEO remains an active member of CEOs for Gender Equity, championing action across the organisation to break down systemic barriers and promote equitable outcomes.

Action on Gender Equality

Employee Consultation

Engaging employees through consultation on gender equality issues helps employers to understand the employee experience and to take meaningful action. Employers can use the information they learn through the consultation process to generate solutions that are practical and relevant to their organisation.

2.4 Have you consulted with employees on issues concerning gender equality in your workplace during the reporting period?

Yes

2.4a How did you consult employees?

Employee experience survey; Consultative committee or group; Exit interviews; Other
Other: Additional internal communications and articles on group intranet/Vault.

2.4b Who did you consult?

ALL staff

2.5 Do you have formal policies and/or formal strategies in place to ensure employees are consulted and have input on issues concerning gender equality in the workplace?

Yes

Strategy

2.8 If your organisation would like to provide additional information relating to employee consultation on gender Equality in your workplace, please do so below.

A section of our bi-annual employee engagement survey is dedicated to Diversity, Inclusion and Equal Employment Opportunity to gain a better insight into employee sentiments relating to the organisation's actions and dedication to gender equity, and other DEI factors. These responses provide us with key data to inform key areas of focus as we refine our current established DEI strategy and Gender Equity Strategy. Demographic data (relating to gender, ethnicity, caring responsibilities, neurodiversity, culture, etc.) is also collected voluntarily, which further enables us to report on and consider engagement across genders from a demographic perspective. Our established Gender Equity Committee plays a critical role in driving gender equity outcomes across the organisation. The Committee is made up of passionate and engaged employees from diverse areas of the business who are actively involved in progressing a range of initiatives. These include leading awareness campaigns, supporting the development of resources and tools, providing input into policies and practices and partnering with business leaders to identify and address systemic barriers. The Committee's ongoing work ensures that gender equity principles are embedded into our culture, policies and processes.

Flexible Work

Flexible Working Arrangements

A flexible working arrangement is an agreement between an employer and an employee to change the standard working arrangement, often through a change to the hours, pattern or location of work. Flexible work is a key enabler of gender equality, helps accommodate an employee's commitments out of work and has become increasingly important for employers in attracting and retaining diverse and talented employees.

3.1 Do you have a formal policy and/or formal strategy on flexible working arrangements?

Yes

Policy

3.1a Do the formal policies and/or formal strategies include any of the following?

A business case for flexibility has been established and endorsed at the leadership level; Leaders are visible role models of flexible working; Flexible working is promoted throughout the organisation; Training on flexible working and remote/hybrid teams is provided to managers; Training on flexible working and remote/hybrid teams is available to all employees; All employees are surveyed on whether they have sufficient flexibility; The organisation's approach to flexibility is integrated into client conversations; The impact of flexibility is measured and evaluated (e.g. reduced absenteeism, increased employee engagement); Flexible work offerings are available to all employees, with a default approval bias (all roles flex approach); 4-day work week/ 9-day fortnight (reduced hours with full-time pay); All team meetings are offered online; The ability to job-share is incorporated into job design and advertising of new roles; Other

Provide Details: Other resource guides, processes, etc. on flexible working are provided to managers instead of formal training, including our 10 Flexible Working Principles that's been shared organisation wide.

3.2 Do you offer any of the following flexible working options to MANAGERS and/or NON MANAGERS in your workplace?

Flexible working option	MANAGERS	NON-MANAGERS

Flexible scheduling, rostering or switching of shifts	No	No

3.3 If your organisation would like to provide additional information relating to flexible working and gender equality in your workplace, please do so below.

PNL has maintained a hybrid work model which includes 10 key principles, which is defined as the blending of in-office and remote work at an individual. Flexible work arrangements may not always be possible due to operational or other limitations. Leaders and employees of PNL are encouraged to be open to discussing and considering a range of flexible work options and are empowered to agree working pattern arrangements which work for their customers and employees, including remote work. Financially prudent and environmentally sound practices will dictate that teams cannot be together all the time, new joiners will arrive in different locations to their leaders, those employees who may be working remotely from their leader must be treated equitably (fairly), as distinct from equally (the same). This means it is incumbent upon leaders to bridge any gap created by remote work through defining and shaping relevant actions to ensure a fair assessment of the outputs of all employees. For example, more intentional virtual catch ups might be required with remote employees than those regularly physically proximate to the leader. Making sure that work is distributed fairly and considering any proximity biases that leaders may hold in designating tasks or assessing performance based on presenteeism are also important factors. Resources and guides are provided to leaders in relation to this to further support this level of thought across the organisation. As part of our ongoing commitment to fostering flexibility in employment and working arrangements, we have also expanded our demographic questions within our bi-annual engagement survey to include a question about work from home arrangements. This will help us better understand how hybrid work is currently being utilised across the business. The insights will support future planning, help identify where additional support might be needed and ensure our approach to flexibility continues to reflect the needs of our people and our work. We also provide an annual update to our Executive and governing body on the future of work, with a dedicated focus on work from home and hybrid work models. This update draws on both internal insights and external benchmarking, including peer data, to inform strategy and ensure our approach remains relevant and responsive to emerging trends and workforce expectations.

Employee Support for Parents and Carers

Paid Parental Leave

Parental leave policies are designed to support and protect working parents around the time of childbirth or adoption of a child and when children are young. Some employers offer universally available parental leave policies, offering equal parental leave for all parents, others offer with a distinction between 'primary' and 'secondary' carers. It's important that it's a policy that's available to all parents, irrespective of gender, ¹²recognising the equally important role of all parents in caregiving. Gender equal policies help to de-gender the ideal worker and carer norms, which pervade the workplace and reduce opportunities for women to remain in, or re-enter the workforce.

4.3 If your organisation would like to provide additional information relating to paid parental leave and gender equality in your workplace, please do so below.

Our parental leave policy provides flexibility for employees to claim either primary or secondary carers leave regardless of gender. This approach supports gender equality by recognising diverse family structures and encouraging shared caring responsibilities across all employees, irrespective of gender identity or role.

Employee Support for Parents and Carers

Support for Carers

Employers can contribute to workplace gender equality by providing support for employees with caring responsibilities. A carer refers to, but is not limited to, an employee's role as the parent (biological, step, adoptive or foster) or guardian of a child, or carer of a child, parent, spouse or domestic partner, close relative, or other dependent. Employer support for employees with caring responsibilities allows them to better accommodate their out-of-work responsibilities.

As part of Police & Nurses Limited's strong commitment to gender equity, we established a direct and personal connect point with our CEO for individuals on parental leave, with an aim to assist with making it easy for individuals to remain connected with the workplace and assist with the transition back to work. An email check-in from the CEO is sent directly to individuals providing the opportunity for individuals to reply directly or make contact with the CEO at any time should they have any questions or want to know more about what's been happening within the business throughout their period of parental leave. This email also outlines that they can connect with their leaders at any time and provides a reminder of how to access KIT days. In addition, we have an active Working Parents Network that provides peer support, connection and practical advice for employees managing parenting responsibilities alongside their careers. The network helps foster inclusion, share experiences and promote a supportive culture for working parents.
